

They came down on us because we had a grass-roots, real people's revolution, complete with the programs, complete with the unity, complete with the working coalitions, where we crossed racial lines. - Bobby Seale

What is GSUS?

- General Strike US (GSUS) is a decentralized strike network focused on community building.
- Aims to create a world for humans, not corporations.
- Organizes collective resistance against colonial capitalism and U.S. imperialism.

Why Strike?

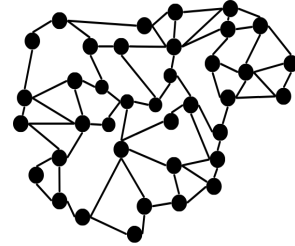

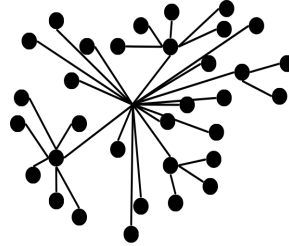

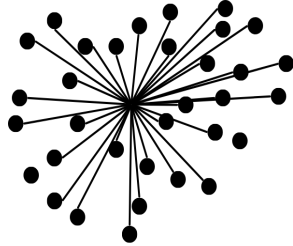

- Traditional methods (voting, protesting, marching) have failed to bring real change.
- The system relies on our labor, we must withhold our labor and purchasing power.
- Encourages refraining from supporting and complying with established systems of organized crime.

About (GS)US

- GSUS is a decentralized strike network focused on collective resistance against U.S. imperialism and the status quo.
- Aims to mobilize 3.5% or more of the population for sustained participation in preparation for this general strike.

Network of Change:

- Functions as a node in a broader movement for change.
- No central authority; all members contribute to a common goal through their individual initiatives.

- Role of GSUS: Acts as the glue connecting and supporting autonomous efforts already underway.
- Labor Philosophy: Recognizes that labor comes from the people and is the driving force behind global trade, markets, and society.
- Shift in Focus: Aims to redirect labor from serving oppressive powers to serving communities and caring for one another.
- Economic Solutions: Promotes alternatives like timebanking and active participation in mutual aid to move away from reliance on the dollar.

Strength In Numbers & Diversity

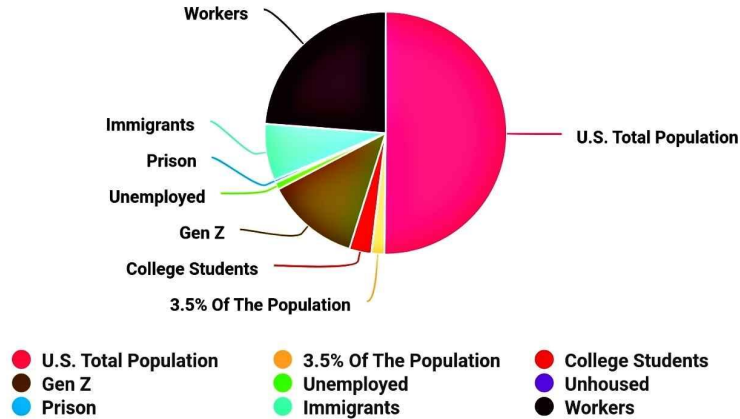

Numbers really matter for building power in ways that can really pose a serious challenge or threat to entrenched authorities or occupations.

Building Resistance: Actions You Can Take Now

<https://docs.google.com/document/d/12peucDSwriEX5rOTijOAGtxTJ3rXyOzuwY5GPu9suNM/edit?usp=drivesdk>

- No Specific Strike Date: Focuses on mobilizing a significant number of individuals for sustained participation as preparation for a general strike.
- Blend of Approaches: Combines diverse ideologies, methods, and analyses to build the power necessary for true liberation.
- 3.5% Participation Goal: Aims to mobilize 3.5% or more of the U.S. population to actively engage, creating an interconnected support system across states.
- Support for Communities: Prioritizes addressing the needs of the most marginalized and vulnerable populations.
- Collective Resistance: Encourages participation in various forms, recognizing that everyone has a role to play. No single group or individual can achieve this alone, we must strike at the root together.
- Vision for Change: Coming together creates a powerful movement capable of driving meaningful transformation.

Pledge Goal: We aim to reach 6 million pledges on the strike card before crafting and finalizing demands with community and coalition members, as well as expert advocates.

Commitment to Demands: Until then, GSUS will actively stand for and fight for these demands.

Humanitarian Rights: GSUS is committed to advocating for humanitarian rights.

All Power To The People!

“We hold these truths to be self-evident: that the people have the right to live with dignity, freedom, and self-determination.”

Our 5 Core Demands

Our 5 Core Demands are a simplified, shareable condensation of the GSUS 10-Point Platform and the broader list of demands in this Welcome Packet.

P.O.W.E.R. - The Core of Our Struggle

Our demands aren't requests, they're power reclaimed.

Each letter stands for a pillar of liberation:

“Build Power - Take Power - Share Power.”

- People Over Profits
- Our Right To Self Determination
- Working Class Liberation
- Equity & Autonomy
- Resistance to Empire

5 Core Demand Slides

5-Step Strategy to Liberation

This strategy is the heart of our approach. Each step builds the foundation for a future where people, not corporations or colonizers govern our communities. These steps may appear sequential, but many are being built simultaneously. Revolution isn't linear. It's dynamic. We grow through struggle and action.

Step 1: Build People Power From the Ground Up

We begin where people already live, work, and struggle, our communities. This means creating community power structures like:

- Free food programs
- Renters' unions
- Strike support teams
- Mutual aid collectives
- Community health clinics
- Neighborhood safety, without police

These aren't just support services they're revolutionary infrastructure. We're building the new world now inside the shell of the collapsing one.

Step 2: Connect the People's Power Build a United Front

No movement wins in isolation. We unite our struggles. GSUS helps connect local power to a national network forming a united front of:

- Mutual aid crews
- Community groups
- Tenant councils/unions - Radical unions
- Land/Housing/Worker Co-ops
- GSUS chapters across the country

We share resources and strategies while remaining decentralized and adaptable. One movement, many fronts.

This strategy is the heart of our approach. Each step builds the foundation for a future where people, not corporations or colonizers govern our communities. These steps may appear sequential, but many are being built simultaneously. Revolution isn't linear. It's dynamic. We grow through struggle and action.

Step 3: Bring Clarity to the Struggle

We don't just respond to injustice we expose the system behind it. When people rise up over rent hikes, police terror, hunger, or wages we help connect the dots:

- Why does this keep happening?
- Who profits?
- Why don't reforms work?

We politicize each moment with clarity and truth: We don't need tweaks. We need transformation.

Step 4: Disrupt the System, Together

When enough of us are ready, we strike back. We move from preparation to (Phase 2 - 6 Million Strike Cards): Coordinated Disruption, using tactics like:

- Walkouts & Boycotts
- Rent strikes, Tax Strikes
- Blockades
- Coordinated multi-city shutdowns

Each action is planned by those closest to the ground, the people, not politicians. This is how we show power. This is Revolutionary Strike.

This strategy is the heart of our approach. Each step builds the foundation for a future where people, not corporations or colonizers govern our communities. These steps may appear sequential, but many are being built simultaneously. Revolution isn't linear. It's dynamic. We grow through struggle and action.

Step 5: Build the New World

We don't wait for permission, we prepare to govern ourselves. (Phase 3 - 11 Million + Strike Cards) As the system cracks, we build alternatives:

- As the system cracks, we build alternatives:
- People's assemblies (horizontal democracy)
- Strike councils & radical unions
- Community defense (not police)
- Post-capitalist ways of sharing resources

This isn't just about resistance, it's construction. We're not just surviving collapse. We're replacing the system.

GSUS 3 D's:

- Alignment with Humanity: GSUS values and interests are deeply aligned with humanity and the working class.
- Community Focus: Emphasizes building community relationships based on love, life, and sustainability, rather than prioritizing businesses with private interests.
- Core Values: GSUS has 3 core values that guide the organization and help maintain its identity.

3 D's Slides

DECENTRALIZATION

- We are stronger when knowledge and power are distributed throughout our network, not concentrated amongst a select few. We are committed to a starfish model of organizing.

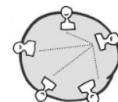

DISSENT

- To create real change, we must charter a new path. New ideas are born out of disagreements with the status quo. We will not replicate systems of dominance and control within our vision, for The master's tools will never dismantle the master's house.

DIVERSITY

- A strike of 11 million people means people of every race, gender and ability must come together to win. We champion all forms of humanity and their right to exist, inclusive of our diverse backgrounds, political stances, and religious beliefs.

“This is not a tribute of nostalgia it is a continuation of a struggle that never ended.”

GSUS 10-Point Platform & Program

 What We Want Now

Inspired by the Black Panther Party's original Ten Point Program, this platform outlines what we demand now rooted in revolutionary love, self determination, and liberation for all oppressed peoples. It is not just a list of demands, but a vision of the world we are building.

1. Self-Determination & Full Liberation

We demand direct control of our communities, resources, and futures through people's governance, not state repression. Liberation includes sovereignty for Indigenous peoples, political prisoner release, and systemic transformation.

2. Collective Ownership of Labor & Time

No more wage slavery. We call for timebanking, mutual aid, and worker controlled systems. Labor should empower communities, not corporations.

3. Universal Access to Life-Sustaining Resources

Housing, healthcare, food, water, energy, and education must be free and universal. These are rights not privileges.

4. Revolutionary Education & Cultural Liberation

End white supremacist, colonial education. Teach real history, revolutionary theory, and survival skills. Education must nurture political consciousness and cultural pride.

5. Intersectional Justice for All

Our revolution includes everyone LGBTQIA+, women, immigrants, disabled people, the poor, and the incarcerated. No one is free until all of us are.

“This is not a tribute of nostalgia it is a continuation of a struggle that never ended.”

Inspired by the Black Panther Party's original Ten Point Program, this platform outlines what we demand now rooted in revolutionary love, self determination, and liberation for all oppressed peoples. It is not just a list of demands, but a vision of the world we are building.

6. Indigenous Sovereignty & Environmental Justice

Return stolen land. Enforce treaties. Transition to sustainable systems governed by Indigenous and frontline communities.

7. Economic Justice & Cooperative Power

Abolish capitalist domination. Build cooperative economies, mutual aid networks, credit unions, and worker-owned enterprises.

8. Abolition of the Military & Prison Industrial Complex

End U.S. imperialism, mass incarceration, and policing. Invest in mental health, community safety, and transformative justice instead.

9. Reparative & Restorative Justice

We demand reparations for descendants of the enslaved, Indigenous peoples, and all who've endured state and environmental violence. Restore stolen wealth and land.

10. Global Solidarity & Anti-Imperialist Unity

From Congo to Palestine, we stand with global liberation. End sanctions, occupations, and imperial capitalism.

GSUS Chapters

Dual Approach: GSUS chapters focus on online activism and on-the-ground organizing to connect with and listen to their communities.

Community Empowerment: Chapters spread awareness about GSUS while engaging in or organizing community empowerment initiatives that address local needs.

Regional GSUS Chapters /Social Media Pages

Crafting Strike Demands: Insights gathered from communities are used to shape and refine strike demands.

Decentralized Structure: To remain decentralized and resilient, GSUS aims to create interconnected nodes across states, preventing reliance on a single leader or point of failure.

Collaboration System: This state-to-state network ensures basic needs are met both before and after the strike through initiatives like food co-ops, food pantries, and mutual aid.

Learning Through Action: Chapters will record successes and failures to learn from their experiences, improving the movement through dedication and continuous evolution.

GSUS Chapters Contin...

Recommended Organizing Models:

GSUS encourages chapters to adopt cell model organizing and sociocracy circles as foundational methods. This is of course optional and up to the chapter.

These models balance decentralization (for resilience and adaptability) with coordination (to align local efforts with broader movement goals).

G.S.U.S. Chapters/ Structure

https://docs.google.com/document/d/1c4ms5MvoEZrZ366XGAO7OY3lt0egKh7-4o55IJU7rOI/edit?usp=drive_sdk

Cell Model Organizing:

Empowers autonomous, self-organized groups while maintaining their connection to the larger GSUS network.

Sociocracy Circles:

A governance system that emphasizes collaboration, equality, and distributed decision-making for inclusive and efficient coordination.

Dynamic Structure:

Integrating these methods creates a structure that empowers local initiatives while ensuring coherence across the movement.

Coalition Building

Together, Unstoppable: GSUS builds coalitions to create and defend an interconnected system that supports communities before and after the strike.

Coalition Partners: Align with individuals, grassroots initiatives, and organizations that share potential strike demands and or willing to contribute towards strike needs.

Connections are formed through local GSUS chapters or the core outreach team.

Shared Values: The coalition is held together by shared values like (Decentralization, Diversity and Dissent)

Strengthens the movement by sharing resources and skills to achieve collective goals.

Comprehensive Justice:
The coalition spans all sectors of the social movement, addressing U.S. imperialism and its impacts.

Focuses on achieving social, political, environmental, technological, and economic justice.

Actions Coalition Members Can Take

https://docs.google.com/document/d/1L33qtEgD74f8chamnrfojn9_b7Naaaezr6R6afaWKm8/edit?usp=drivesdk

Coalition Building - Contin...

Mutual Solidarity: Solidarity will manifest differently among groups based on their unique resources and skills, but it will be present throughout the coalition.

Emphasizes a collaborative effort to empower all members.

Promoting the Strike Card: Coalition members are encouraged to promote the strike card through word of mouth or by incorporating a customized version on their websites and social media platforms.

Benefits Of Coalitions

- Achieving goals: Coalitions can accomplish goals that are beyond the capacity of any individual member organization. These goals can include information sharing, service coordination, community education, and advocacy for policy or environmental changes.
 - Increasing visibility: Coalitions can generate more media coverage and visibility than a single organization.
 - Building trust: Coalitions can help build trust and consensus between people and organizations that have similar concerns and responsibilities within a community.
 - Institutionalizing strategies: Coalitions are more likely to achieve longevity or have their strategies integrated into established community organizations.
 - Coordinating services: Coalitions can coordinate services and limit duplication of efforts.
 - Leveraging resources: Coalitions can increase access to resources and pool community resources to make them go further.
 - Influencing policy: Coalitions can build political clout to influence policy.
 - Developing public support: Coalitions can develop and increase public support for issues, actions, or needs.
 - Developing Leadership Skills: Coalitions can help people develop different skills, such as facilitation, listening, negotiation, and advocacy.

About the GSUS Open Letter

- A Collective Declaration: The Open Letter brings together organizations and people across movements: racial, economic, gender, climate, and queer justice under one unified banner.
- Exposes the System: It names the root of our struggles as a single oppressive system: a corporate oligarchy that sacrifices people and planet for profit.
- Rejects Division: It emphasizes that our crises: deportations, climate collapse, transphobia, fascism, are not separate, but interconnected symptoms of the same violent system.
- Calls for a General Strike: It is a bold public commitment to the most powerful weapon the working class holds: the withdrawal of labor.
- Centers Collective Power: The letter invites labor unions, students, tenants, and grassroots groups to strike not just for reforms, but to build a new world rooted in care and justice.
- Signals a Strategic Shift: This is not just protest, it's a coordinated call to disrupt, to organize, and to build dual power through mass resistance.

How will the Strike Work?

We have a rough draft but our plan is constantly evolving. There are 3 phases to our strike:

Phase 1: Base Organizing

Phase 2: Organizing & Strike Day Prep

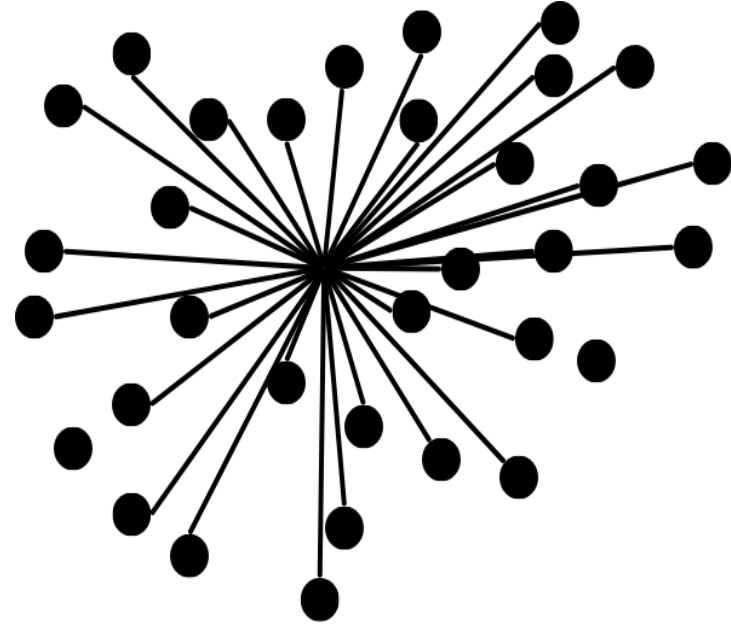

Phase 3: Demands Finalized & Map Out the Strike

To successfully satisfy each phase, we have to reach a certain amount of signed digital strike cards.

Phase 1: Base Organizing 0-6M Signed Cards

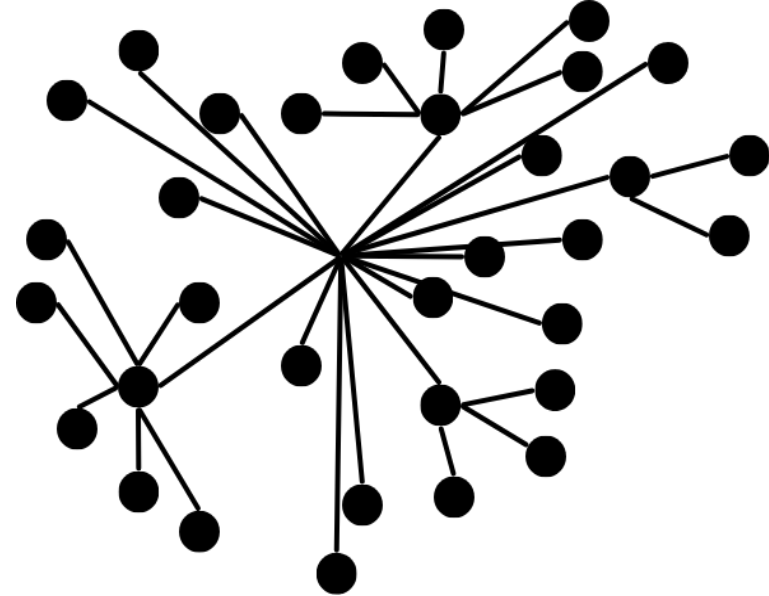

- Growing strength in numbers and diversity which is reflected by the strike card
- Developing volunteer skills in order to establish multiple GSUS chapters
- Grow a coalition that consist of individuals/orgs that can help with strike needs and demands
- Generate resource/skills directory
- Build local chapters to build solidarity with local mutual aid networks and build community coalitions.

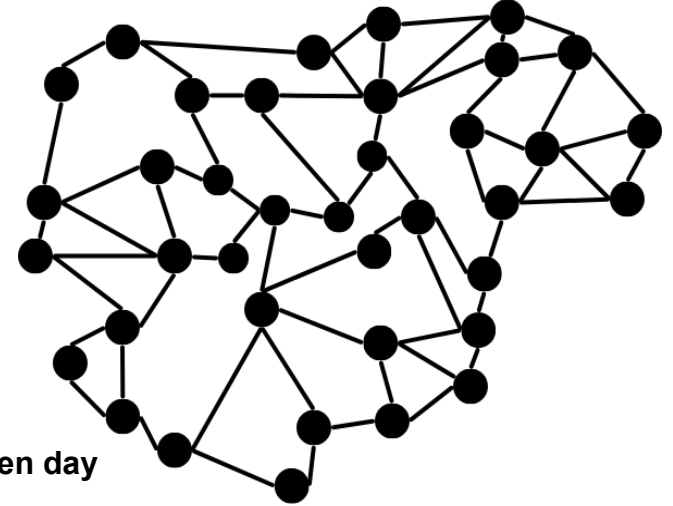

Phase 2: Organizing Strike Day Prep 6M-10M Signed Cards

- With a powerful diverse base of 6M signed strike cards, we will shift our focus towards:
 - Drafting official demands with specific demands drafted by community members, coalition members, experts advocating for these struggles.
 - Plan events and begin to work out potential strike dates.
 - Continue strengthening our organizing and outreach efforts.
 - Strengthen our mutual aid network and begin finding solution to coordinate mutual aid support.

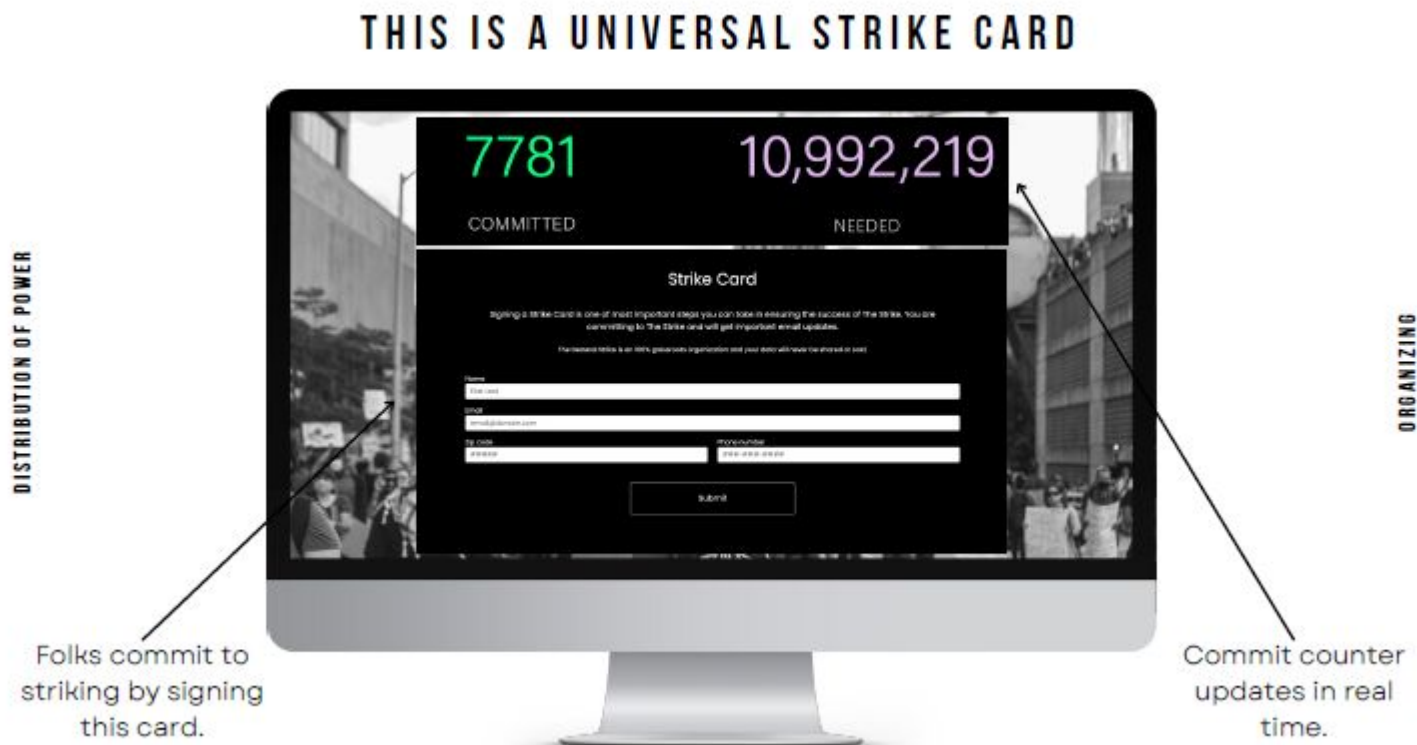

Phase 3: Demands Finalized & Map Out the Strike Day

- With 11M strikers and our mutual aid network established on the chosen day WE STRIKE!
- We will have to continue to work to support our strikers
 - We will have to help mutual aid groups that come into trouble and adapt support systems to help strikers.
 - We will need to educate new strikers and volunteers that join the cause.
 - We will have to continue to update strikers on social media and fight media attacks.
 - Need to work to develop strategies to fight unexpected obstacles for strikers and organizers.

Why a Strike Card?

PEOPLE NEED CLEAR GOALS

DISTRIBUTION OF POWER

ORGANIZING

- A tangible timeline. We strike when we reach 11 million commits.
- Transparency. Everyone can see how close we are to our goal and help reach it.
- Data we can use. We are helping orgs build contact lists to mobilize their members.
- Encourages peer-to-peer texting and Online-to-Offline organizing.
- Growth. The higher our strike count, the more others will join on board.

EXISTING CARDS AND PLEDGES CAN EASILY BE INTEGRATED

- Groups linking their pledges decide how much data to share, from all their data to just top line numbers.
- Together we create a shared number of total strike commits--a shared metric.

Strike For America already has a pledge with thousands of commits.

IT CAN LIVE ON ANY WEBSITE

DISTRIBUTION OF POWER

ORGANIZING

General Strike
Revolution's website.

Button links to the Universal Strike Card

Some Questions, Some Answers

How does the backend work?

- Strike cards bring data into a secure Google Sheet where they are counted collectively and duplicates are weeded out. Submissions are sorted by source so contributing groups can view and use their own data.

Will anyone else see our data?

- Not unless you want them to! Each organization gets decides to use their own data and no other organization has access to other groups' sheets.

Why are you collecting data?

- To organize. We are using peer-to-peer texting platform to empower growth through one-on-one conversations. We need hand-raisers and their phone numbers to reach 11 million strikers.

What is a Sociocracy?

- A sociocracy is self governed system mediated through consent from participating groups

As opposed to a 'Hierarchy' where a system is governed from the top down and is mediated through ranks and status within the structure, like corporations.

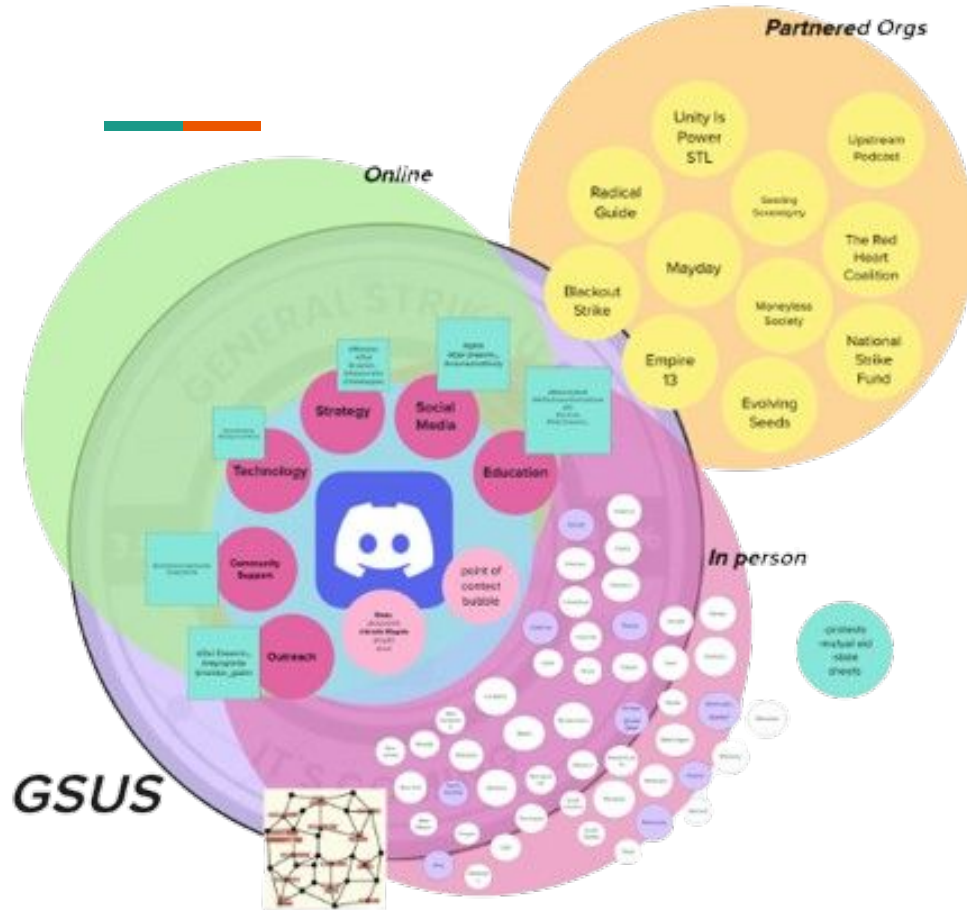

- There are no leaders, yet everyone is a leader, we take everyone's ideas into consideration in this system

The Sociocracy Map

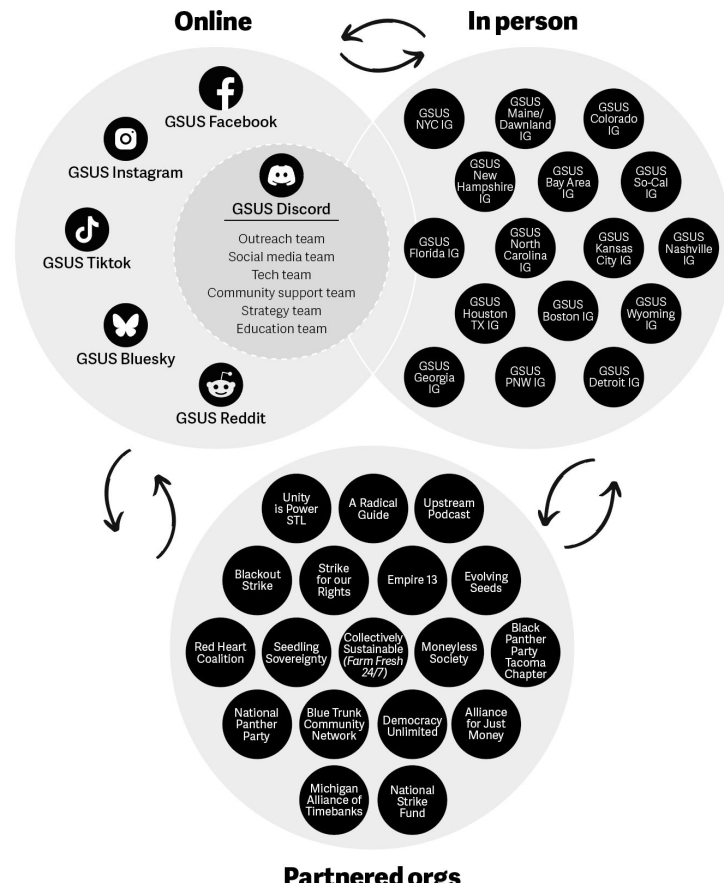

Our sociocracy map defines where GSUS and partner organizations to build physical and digital relationships.

First Draft

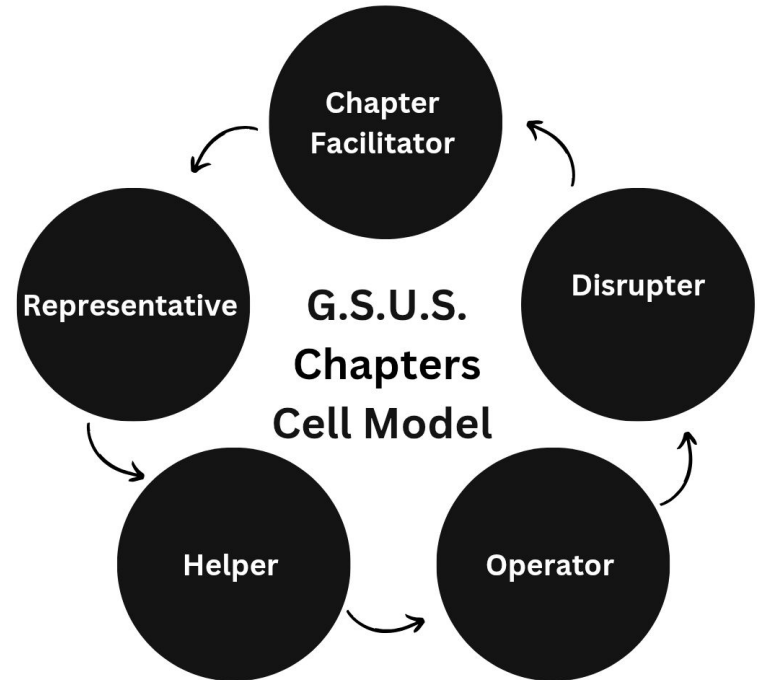

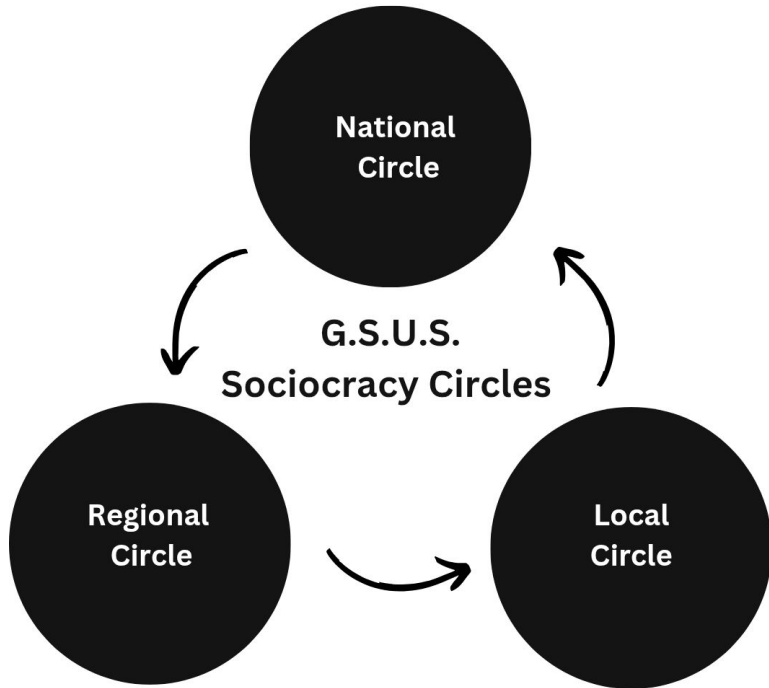

- Made on a 'Mural', the first version of our sociocracy map started the visual representation of our decentralized network.

Updated Draft

- A cleaned up less defined version of the map. Another visual representation that defines our POV in the movement.
- Everyone's POV will be different and have different connections, GSUS may be in the center of this map but for you, it can be one of those smaller bubbles on the side for you,

Sociocracy Circles

Our Line of Communication

- Decentralized, Not Disconnected: We reject hierarchy without losing coordination. Power is shared, not siloed.
- We Are the Leadership: No one is waiting to be told what to do, we step up, support each other, and move together.
- Inspired by Past Liberation Movements: Our communication model honors freedom fighters who built resilient, underground, and people-led structures.
- Built to Resist Co-optation: We design our networks to withstand state repression and sabotage, prioritizing adaptability and collective safety.
- Rooted in Trust and Revolutionary Discipline: Communication isn't just about talking, it's about intentionality, accountability, and clarity in service of the mission.
- Connection Is Power: Strong, principled communication is what allows decentralized chapters to move in rhythm, build dual power, and strike back.
